1. Creating new account

The home page of the screen has the title and a login box. If you already have an account, go to step 2.

Click on the link that says "Sign up now" and a sign up box will be displayed.

Provide the User ID and Password which you would like to use when you want to log in and also provide your name.

Once you create an account, the system automatically logs you in, and takes you to your profile page.

2. Logging in to your account

If you do not have an account, go to step 1 to create an account.

Provide the User ID and Password in the given fields and click on the button to "Log In".

You will be then redirected to you profile page which will have a list of your existing coupons.

3. Existing coupon list

After logging in to your, a list of coupons will be displayed as the default account view. This list is the list of existing coupons for the user.

It displays the status of the coupon whether the user is "Expired" or "Redeemed". If none of them show, that means the coupon is still unused.

If no coupons are visible in this section, more coupons can be added by the user.

To add coupons, go to step 4.

4. Adding new coupons

After logging in to your account, the default section which is visible to a user is the list of their existing coupons. If user does not have any coupons, message is displayed accordingly.

Coupons can be added by clicking on the second tab in the profile page, that says “Add coupons”.

On clicking, it provides two options, “Adding coupons manually” and “Import coupons from file”.

Choosing the manual way will open a form for the user to provide the details of the coupon.

After providing the details, click on “Save”.

The coupon gets saved and added to the users list, but the form is still open if the user wants to add another coupon. If not, user can close the popup and go to the “my Coupons” tab to view the added coupons.

If user chooses to import coupons from a file, he/she will be provided with a box asking them the number of coupons to be added.

The system then automatically extracts all the coupons from the file and adds them to the account and the user is redirected to the “My Coupons” section.

5. Searching and sorting of coupons

In the “My Coupons” section, two buttons are provided “Search” and “Sort”.

On clicking on “Search”, the search filters are visible to the user for search.

The user needs to choose from the dropdown the field on which he/she wants to search and provide the value to search for and the click on the “Search” button.

The system then finds the coupon that matches the value being searched for and displays the coupon to the user.

If coupon is not found, message is displayed regarding the same.

Clicking on the “Reset” button will remove the search result and display the default view with the list of all existing coupons of the user.

6. Buying coupons from global list

In the user profile page, go to the third tab that says “Browse All”.

This will give a list of coupons that are available for all users to buy.

Once any user buys from this list, it will automatically get added to the user’s existing coupon list and will be also be removed from the global list so other will not be able to the same coupon.

7. Saving changes permanently

In the user profile page, when a user buys a new coupon or adds coupons manually or by importing from a file, these changes are not saved permanently.

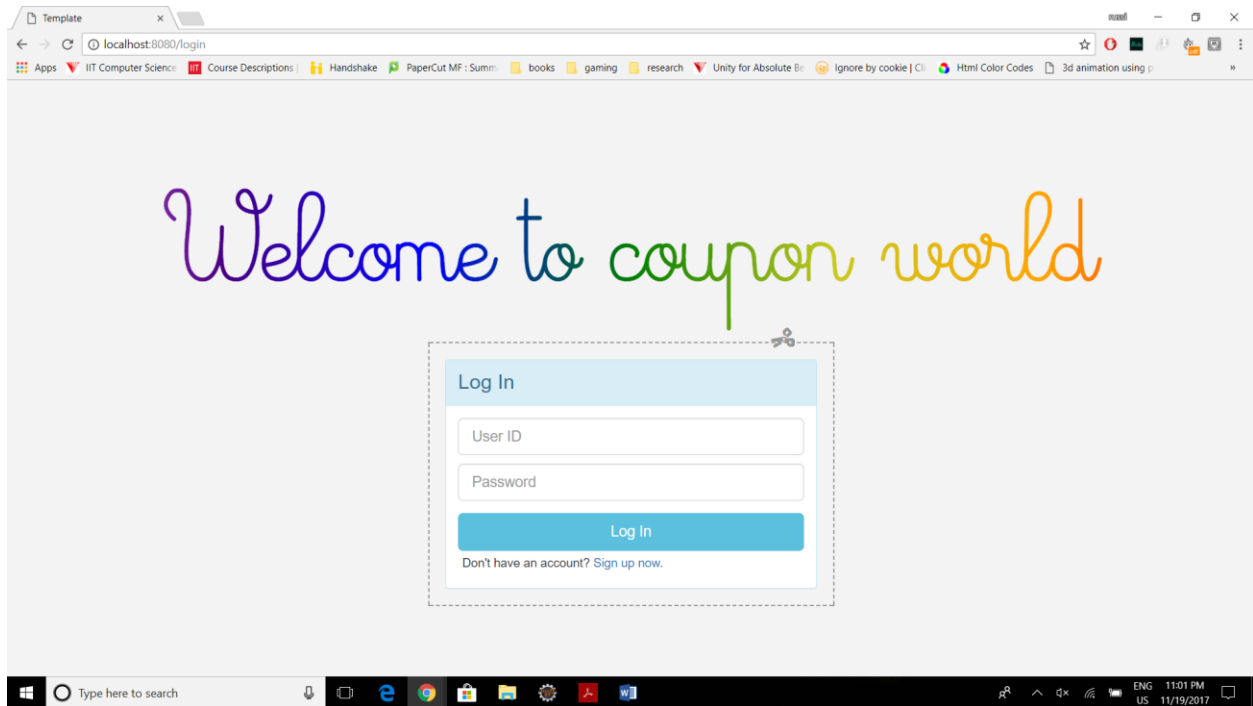

If the user logs out and logs in again these changes will be lost.

Once a new coupon is added to the users list by any of the ways mentioned before, a button appears that says, “Save changes” on the upper right corner.

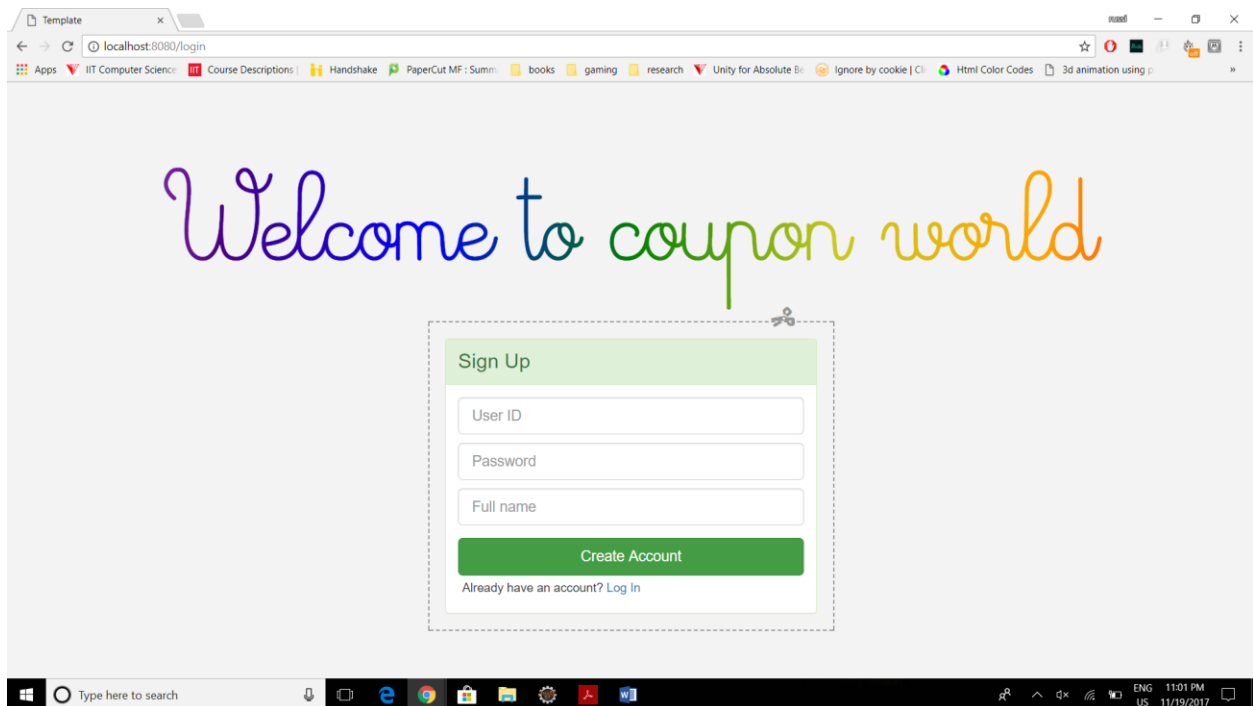

Clicking on this button will permanently add these coupons to your account.
